

Wunderman

Wunderman chose our wonderful filtered hydration systems to help keep their staff and clients happy and productive.

Overview

Founded in 1958, Wunderman is a leading digital agency that provides data analytics, integrated marketing and digital transformation consulting services. With 200 offices in 70 countries and more than 20,000 employees around the world, it is uniquely positioned to rethink business, culture and brand experiences.

Wunderman's London HQ at Greater London House on Hampstead Rd is a striking example of 20th century Egyptian revival architecture. Adorned with two huge black cat sculptures on guard at the front of the building, it is one of London's most eye-catching offices.

The challenge - boiling, chilled and sparkling systems with a sleek design

Inside, Wunderman wanted to make their space just as aesthetically pleasing. With a modern and open style office (even fitted with a break out disco room!) they sought to ensure their 300 London staff were kept fully hydrated, keeping the creative thinkers, business minds and data scientists in tip top condition.

Solution

Wunderman chose two Quadra Plus models dispensing boiling and chilled filtered water from XL lever taps in a Chrome finish; and hot and cold filtered water from matching paddle mixer taps. For their meeting room, they opted for one Quadra Plus Sparkling system in Matte Black with matching gooseneck mixer tap, this system allows them to dispense additional filtered sparkling water from the XL lever tap. Their back office kitchen was fitted with one Sahara model in Chrome, dispensing boiling and ambient filtered water.

The Billi taps fit effortlessly into the tea point areas providing sustainable, efficient and high-quality hydration solutions for all employees. This project was coordinated with Overbury, Aura Consulting and Jackdaw Studio.

"We chose a combination of the Chrome and Matte Black taps to complement our kitchen and social areas with the aesthetics of the taps fitting nicely into our modern office space. We are pleased with the outcome and were happy with the service Billi provided us."
